Brief description of the activity

A visit to the Pre-IAS study Centre in Kolhapur was organized for the First-year B.Arch students on 6/3/25. Students keenly observed the design elements, exploring creative concepts and structural details. They interacted with the office bearing staff and students for gaining deeper insights into the planning aspects and enhancing their overall qualitative architectural understanding of the facility.

Outcome of the activity

Through this activity, students developed an understanding of the design principles and different activities carried out at the study centre. They understood the typology of the space by closely analysing the architectural style. They gained insight into the quality of space necessary for a study area, and its ancillary activities which has provided them with much needed impetus for their own architectural project.
